

NEED HELP PAYING OFF YOUR STUDENT LOANS?
THEN WORK FOR US.

Several of our correctional facilities have been designated as Health Program Shortage Areas (HPSA) — and if you work at one, you can apply for tax-free grants to pay off your student loans. Not a bad deal, especially considering all of our facilities are in the Golden State of California, and our salaries are higher than most HPSA employers. And let's not forget, our social workers receive nearly eight weeks in paid time off, and they work in some of the most secure facilities in the nation. (Now that's peace of mind.) To learn more about our great career opportunities, call us at 877-793-4473, or email us today at MedCareers@cdcr.ca.gov.

IF YOU WORK AT THE RIGHT INSTITUTION, YOU CAN APPLY FOR FEDERAL FUNDS.

Did you know the Federal Government can help pay off your student loans? It's true. The program provides tax-free grants for social workers who make a two-year commitment to provide mental health care in underserved communities.

And best of all, social workers employed at several of our correctional facilities are eligible to apply.

Full-Time loan recipients working in a Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) with a HPSA score of 14 or higher may receive up to $60,000 to pay for qualifying student loans in exchange for a two-year service commitment with an approved site. Those working in a HPSA with a score of 13 or below may receive up to $40,000.
